Women's History Month Presentation

In recognition of Women's History Month and in conjunction with the 150th Anniversary of Storer College, Harpers Ferry National Historical Park invites the public to a special presentation entitled "Missionaries and Money: How Free Baptist Women Influenced Storer College" on Saturday, March 18, 2017 at 2:00 PM. This program will focus on the history of the women who worked tirelessly to raise money for Storer College's buildings' fund and of those who were the missionary teachers from the 1870s to the 1910s.

The presentation will be held at the Mather Training Center, 2nd floor classroom. After the program, weather permitting, attendees will be invited to walk the former Storer College campus with a park ranger to further discuss the buildings' histories. For additional information, please call 304-702-5684.

UPCOMING TOWN ELECTIONS

4

The election for Mayor and Town Council will be held June 13. Two candidates are running for mayor, incumbent, Greg Vaughn and Wayne Bishop. There are ten candidates for Town Council: Shirley Caniford, Robert Case, Deborah DeMaris, Peter Dessauer, Barbara Humes, Hardwick Johnson, Deborah McGee, Charlotte Thompson, Marjorie Yost, and Ed Wheelless.

Candidates were asked to submit a statement about themselves for the newsletter. Kevin Carden, the Town Recorder is running unopposed. Most of the candidates are included here, and if not, they will hopefully be in next month's edition.

Town Council Candidates

Shirley Caniford

As a town council candidate, I am eager to offer our community the dedication and attention it deserves. Harpers Ferry is a beautiful town with wonderful people, captivating resources, and enchanting heritage. As a lifelong resident, I have watched this area attract a diverse, growing populace. Throughout my life, I have been employed by the National Park Service so I have genuine history of actually working for the town on multiple issues and initiatives. I am dearly committed to always providing careful time and attention to the interests of our hometown. In my retirement, I have dedicated my focus to the ever-changing issues that our town government has encountered. I am hopeful to lend all my efforts to our residents and merchants in cooperatively establishing opportunities for everyone. The quaintness, history, and appeal of our area is truly ours to share without excessive debate. If elected, I intend to approach all concerns with impartiality and uphold an integral part of the decision-making processes for the welfare of

Shirley and husband, James

Deborah De Maris

Hello Neighbors,

I am running because I know I can make a difference.

I was born in Texas and criss-crossed the country until my husband, Earl, brought me here on our first date twelve years ago. We bought our home and got married at the promontory overlook nine years ago. We secured our plot in Harper Cemetery last year. We are here to stay.

My professional experience would empower me to help our town. I am a business broker (I help people buy or sell businesses), and in that capacity I have been "behind the curtain" with developers and business owners. Working in New York as a Job Developer/Employment and Training Specialist honed my skills in contract negotiation and arbitration. I also owned two small businesses making me aware of all the challenges commerce entails.

I want a hotel that we don't have to subsidize. Why shouldn't the developer contribute to the infrastructure upgrades that they require?

I want to ensure historical integrity and the natural beauty of the site. I am concerned with the effects of demolition and construction on the structural soundness of our tiny fragile town.

Didn't you come here to escape big developments and McMansions?

Peter Dessauer

I am a 40 year veteran with the National Park Service serving in the capacity of Historical Architect since 1977. I moved to Harpers Ferry in 1992 for a position at Harpers Ferry National Historical Park and have been in residence here every year since that time. My formal education involved graduations and degrees from Deerfield Academy, Tufts University (BA), Clemson University, and the University of Florida (MA Architecture). I arrived in a “round-about” manner to Harpers Ferry after years working in Alaska with the BLM and with the NPS at the Denver Service Center, in New York City with the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island projects, and in Boston with the Old State House and Fanueil Hall projects. My passions include History and Historical Architecture. I am a firm believer in preservation and that development at the right and limited scale, style, and impact can cohabitate with preservation. Harpers Ferry is a gentle environment worth protecting. Its historic town character – an international reputation – must be conserved for the benefit, access, and safety of all residents and

Barbara Humes

Barbara is a native West Virginian and has lived in Harpers Ferry for 16 years. During this time she has been involved with many town governance activities. She has served on the town’s Planning Commission, as the municipal representative to the Jefferson County Planning Commission, Chairperson of the Elks Run Watershed Study Committee, member of the Storm Water Committee, member of the Comprehensive Plan Committee, and for the past 6 years as chairperson of the Water Commission. As an interested citizen she attends many meetings of the Town Council, commissions, and committees in order to stay abreast of issues that affect our town and our quality of life. She is a member of the Woman’s Club of the Harpers Ferry District where she serves as coordinator of the annual Schilling Scholarship Award and recently appointed as club archivist. She also serves on the board of the Land Trust of the Eastern Panhandle as secretary and records manager and is treasurer of the Jefferson County Youth Board. She is a member of the Trinity UMC in Martinsburg where she serves on the Staff-Parish Relations Board. She graduated long ago from Shepherd College (now Shepherd University) and Maryland University and is currently enrolled in the Shepherd University Lifelong Learning program. She is retired from the U.S. Department of Education.

Hardy Johnson

Dr. Hardwick Smith Johnson, Jr. “Hardy” holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Atlanta Christian College, a Master’s degree from Georgia Southern University, and the Doctor of Education degree from Nova Southeastern University. He is currently a School Psychologist with Washington County Public Schools. As a council member, he has served on both the parking and office operations committees, and as a member of the Historic Landmarks Commission. He prides himself on being a voice for citizens on Council, and a staunch defender of Historic Harpers Ferry. Dr. Johnson’s other service to the town includes duties on the Historic Harper Cemetery Board of Trustees and service on the Harpers Ferry-Bolivar Historic Town Foundation. He serves each Sunday in the Sacristy at St. Paul’s K Street (Episcopal), and is an active member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the Society of the Cincinnati. He enjoys genealogy, hiking the Maryland Heights, reading, and a nice cabernet. A Georgia native, Johnson moved to Harpers Ferry four years ago with husband Dr. Shaun Amos and their geriatric poodle Tucker. They restored and live in a 1927 bungalow on West Ridge Street. Dr. Johnson is now extremely proud to call Harpers Ferry “home”.

Deborah McGee

When I walked into the house at 821 East Ridge Street in 2005, I felt as if I had come home. A native of East Tennessee, I loved the rivers and hills that surround Harpers Ferry. Now, I know those rivers and hills are the frame for an extraordinary town filled with people who care passionately about its future. If elected, I will work for this common goal of preserving Harpers Ferry for future generations while providing safety and services to current residents and businesses. My husband, Curt, and I have lived in, visited, and learned from historic towns in across the nation. I have worked for PBS and education foundations. I now teach inclusive pre-kindergarten classes in Maryland. An advocate for reading, I joined the Bolivar-Harpers Ferry Library Board of Trustees in 2007. I serve as Secretary on the Historic Landmarks Commission, and Vice President for the Harpers Ferry-Bolivar Historic Town Foundation. Membership in the Woman's Club has given me many happy hours with friends who do so much good for our community. I said 'yes' when Senator John Unger asked me to help support the summer lunch program for children. I enjoy cooking, church activities, walking, writing, fishing, and hiking. My four children, and seven grandchildren, share the view that Harpers Ferry is a special place, a place I would

Charlotte Thompson

Charlotte has lived in Harpers Ferry for over thirty years. She has had a successful career as an educator/librarian in nearby Maryland public schools. First elected to the Harpers Ferry Town Council in 2001, her re-elections indicate her success as a Council member, knowledgeable about operational procedures for good, local governance. Her familiarity with critical issues has enabled her to demonstrate leadership in protecting the historic 19th-century village character of Harpers Ferry and encouraging resident input for the renovation of Hilltop House. She worked with other officials to pass Home Rule to help keep the Harpers Ferry economy strong with a solid tax base.

Charlotte has consistently focused on upgrading the town's infrastructure. She has obtained grants to support the Potomac Street renovation, water upgrades, and restoration of Washington Street sidewalks. At the outbreak of the 2015 fire, Charlotte helped organize the orderly deployment of emergency services and monitoring of resident safety. She helped merchant and community members in rebuilding efforts.

Charlotte has worked to help finance and promote an effective police department. She has worked with the parking committee to safely regulate the town's limited parking.

Ed Wheelless

Ed Wheelless purchased Laurel Lodge, a historic house on East Ridge Street, in 2001, while living in Washington, DC. He and his partner, Chris Craig, made it their full-time home in 2005 and opened it as a bed and breakfast two years later. Ed enjoyed sharing his home and Harpers Ferry with thousands of guests over the nine-year life of the inn. He has been actively involved in town volunteer efforts and town government since moving to Harpers Ferry. He joined the Historic Landmarks Commission in 2009 and became its chair in 2010. In that role, he recognized the need and devoted many hours in an effort to update town landmark and zoning regulations and to bring them into greater compliance with West Virginia code. As secretary of the Harpers Ferry-Bolivar Historic Town

Foundation he has been active in fire relief and other community efforts. He is also on the board of the Harpers Ferry Park Association. Ed has worked for 28 years as a software engineer for a government contractor based in Alexandria, Virginia. He enjoys cooking, bicycling and other outdoor recreation, and the Harpers Ferry community. If elected to Town Council, he promises to work diligently, listen intently, and to strive to celebrate and protect the history, the resources and the quality of life in this town he loves.

Midge Yost

Take a drive on Washington Street in the morning and you'll see our small town waking up. Kids waiting for the bus, parents dropping off kids at daycare, and volunteer firefighters maintaining trucks.

Dig deeper and you'll see kids waiting for the bus in front of the recently robbed bank and walking to school across from the 7-11 that's been held up twice. Our dedicated law enforcement officers no longer patrol our sister city of Bolivar, and we need to mend that divide. Our volunteer firefighters, who risk life and limb for us, deserve to have their funding from parking tickets again.

I think it's time for a Town Council that puts people first when it comes to policy and protecting our fragile 18th century village. When agenda items are discussed by council members, you should know what's at stake and have a voice at the table. I want you to be heard, I want you to be respected, and I want to represent you as a member of a Town Council that champions free speech.

Midge Flinn Yost is a 16 year resident of Harpers Ferry. She is an Emmy-Award winning filmmaker and Creative Director for O'Keefe Communications.

Greg Vaughn, candidate for mayor

I am seeking re-election because I have not fulfilled my personal goals for the Town. We still have no hotel, many of our historic homes, streets, and sidewalks continue to deteriorate, and our water supply/distribution system remains an issue. I am committed to continue fulfilling these and other critical needs.

I am pleased to highlight some significant accomplishments during my four years as Mayor. These include:

- improving Town Hall office procedures and staffing
- creating and filling a code enforcement officer position
- amending our nuisance ordinance to include strict enforcement guidelines for our historic structures
- establishing municipal court proceedings for our code officer
- acquiring several substantial State and Federal grants
- obtaining Home Rule authority that included a new 1% sales tax revenue stream
- leading the massive recovery efforts for the 2015 fire
- re-engaging SWaN and mandating corrective actions for their Armory Houses
- overseeing the multimillion dollar re-development of Potomac Street, and
- drafting a new ordinance creating a vacant and uninhabitable structures regulatory board.

I have also attempted to retain stability, reason, and fairness among all stakeholders as the Town continues its development of guidelines for the hotel land parcels. We have a lot yet to accomplish, but with your support, we can continue to achieve greater success.

FLIP FLOP FESTIVAL

Join in the fun and celebrate Earth Day on Saturday, April 22, from 9 am - 5 pm at Harpers Ferry/Bolivar's Third Annual Flip Flop Festival. This celebration of our region's outdoors will begin Saturday morning with a festival at the Odd Fellows Lodge and adjacent Park grounds, Fillmore Street. There will be music, food, vendors, outdoor activities, and workshops on hiking, bicycling, and other ways to enjoy nature in and around Harpers Ferry.

At 7 pm, Saturday, thru-hiker/author Derrick Lugo, aka Mr. Fabulous, will share pictures and stories from his 2100-mile hike on the Appalachian Trail. This event will take place at the Light Horse Inn Barn.

Help send off some of our 2017 crop of Flip Flop hikers (Harpers Ferry to Maine, returning for Harpers Ferry to Georgia) at a pancake breakfast 7-9 am, Sunday morning at Camp Hill-Wesley Methodist Church. Workshops and guided hikes will continue on Sunday, April 23.

Musicians from last year's festival.

Activities are still being added. Follow the progress at www.appalachiantrail.org/flipflop or by following us on Facebook. If you know of potential vendors or speakers who would like to take part, contact Chris Craig, 304-535-2886 or ccraig@laurellodge.com.

American as Apple Pie

Step back in time and make pie the 1860 way! On Saturday, March 25, 2017, Harpers Ferry National Historical Park will offer a 3-hour baking workshop. Participants will have the chance to bake and enjoy fresh fruit pie baked the 19th century way on a wood or coal burning stove.

Learn about the connections between the town's early industrial history and local immigrant Baker and Brewer, Frederick Roeder. Compare 19th century baking methods and discover how the historic Victorian system of food production, today called the slow food movement, was achieved.

A workshop fee of $50.00 for adult participants covers baking ingredients and instruction by park staff in woodstove oven management. This event is suitable for children 12 and up with an attending parent. Visit go.nps.gov/HFworkshops for information about registering for this workshop. Registration closes on March 17th, 2017 and is limited to 6 participants.

WV State Fire Marshal Blasting Regulations and Invitation to Submit Questions

By Patrick Tierney

In July 2016, the WV Legislature approved rules that address blasting-related safety and property protection standards, which apply throughout the state, including municipalities like Harpers Ferry. For example, the rules address:

- Air blast limits;
- Monitoring of blasting activity using calibrated equipment;
- Restricting blast debris, including “fly rock” from leaving a blast site;
- Enforcing blasting-related laws, related to, among other things, the storage and use of explosives;
- Authorizing the State Fire Marshal to investigate explosions;
- Authorizing the State Fire Marshal to issue and revoke blasting licenses and permits; and
- Imposing civil and criminal penalties for not following the law.

The WV Fire Marshal’s office also, at the request of a city, will oversee blasting and monitor it with their own equipment.

Help Restore the Robert Harper Grave Stone

The Friends of Harper Cemetery and the Trustees of Harper Cemetery are working with Robert Mosko, our official conservator, to restore the grave stone of Robert Harper, Founder of Harpers Ferry. Robert Harper's broken and fallen grave stone is located within the only plot in the Harper Cemetery that is encompassed within a four sided, square, stone wall. The tablet is lying on the ground, approximately fifteen feet from the base and tier where it appears it originally stood. The legibility of the tablet is highly obscured from weather as well as biological growth. The base appears to be sunken. The stone will be excavated and exhumed and cleaned. The missing bottom corners of the tablet will be replaced. The base will be exhumed and reset at the appropriate height as indicated by the stone upon the appropriate ballast, level and plumb. Once the tablet has adequately cured, it will be reset upon its tier with the appropriate setting mortar between the joints. When complete, a dedication ceremony will be held to celebrate the restoration.

The cost of restoring the grave stone is $1,500.00 (one thousand-five hundred dollars). Citizens and interested individuals are encouraged to make a tax-deductible contribution to help with the restoration. Checks should be made payable to "Friends of Harper Cemetery," and mailed to P. O. Box 106, Harpers Ferry, WV 25425. Friends of Harper Cemetery, Inc. is an IRS 501(c)(3) organization. Contributions are tax deductible.
